INVESTMENT REPORT

SEPTEMBER 2021

FUND COMMENTARY

Two portfolio companies held investor days in September providing us with an update on the tremendous value creation opportunities ahead of them.

Salesforce upgraded its estimated total addressable market by around 20% to an astounding $248billion. Reflecting the accelerating digital transformations of corporates and governments all over the world. In addition, CEO Marc Benioff guided to long-term operating profit margins 2-3x higher than current levels.

Following a deep dive into its US business last month, Flutter presented on the success of its Sportsbet business in Australia. This demonstrated the 'playbook' that Flutter will replicate with its FanDuel brand to dominate the US market, expected to be worth over $30 billion in time.

In recent weeks we observed weakness in Facebook's share price, as the company acknowledged near-term challenges from changes made by Apple and press reports highlighting the harmful effects of social media on children. Longer term we are confident that Facebook will continue its dominance of online advertising (along with Google) and its investments in AR/VR, e-commerce, and the creator economy will pay off massively.

Several global macroeconomic and geopolitical developments unsettled equity markets broadly in the month. The Fed foreshadowed tighter monetary policy; US lawmakers could not come to agreement on fiscal spending plans and the debt ceiling; Evergrande missed interest payments threatening a Chinese 'Lehman moment'; and German elections resulted in an unstable multi-party coalition.

The flurry of headlines notwithstanding, our portfolios have remained largely unchanged (we added to our investments in Tencent and Alibaba). We remain confident looking past the daily noise because we have invested behind predictable and durable themes that will play out powerfully over decades. We explore these in our quarterly letter.
