Investment Report & Fact Sheet

April 2025

Fund Commentary

During April, global markets experienced significant volatility driven by historic uncertainty due to the Trump administration's policy actions. The onset of worse-than-feared "reciprocal tariffs" and rising geopolitical tensions stoked growing concerns of an economic slowdown and recession. Amidst this, investors continued to favor low-volatility stocks while high-beta growth names sold off in the first week of the month. The selloff reversed as abruptly as it began following the announcement of a 90-day pause on reciprocal tariffs for most countries, prompting a historic rally on 09 April and generating positive momentum into month-end.

For April 2025, the Polen Capital Global Growth Fund (the Fund) declined by 2.71 per cent in Australian Dollars, while the benchmark the MSCI ACWI Net Total Return Index fell by 1.70 per cent in Australian dollars.

The Fund underperformed the benchmark for the period primarily due to weaker security selection in Financials and Health Care, partially offset by stronger selection in Technology. From a sector relative standpoint, having zero exposure to Energy was the most notable positive contributor, while the overweight to Health Care and underweight to Consumer Staples weighed on performance.

The top absolute contributors to performance in April were MercadoLibre, SAP, and Shopify. The bottom absolute detractors were Aon, Thermo Fisher Scientific, and ICON Plc.

During the month the Fund initiated new positions in IDEXX Laboratories (global leader in pet diagnostics with leading offerings for in-clinic diagnostics and out-of-clinic reference labs; highly recurring and profitable business model and attractive runway with tailwinds behind pet ownership and the "humanization of pets") and Starbucks (credible turnaround plan that is multi-pronged, sensible, achievable).

The Fund also added to its positions in Shopify and Adyen (both opportunistic additions amidst market volatility). The Fund also trimmed its positions in Microsoft, Workday, Sage Group, Siemens Healthineers, Accenture, ADP, Visa and Mastercard.

Expectations entering 2025 were as high as we have seen in years – a marked contrast to the past two. Early optimism around American exceptionalism has faded amid rising uncertainty from tariffs and executive actions. This mix of elevated expectations and historic uncertainty has softened the market backdrop, particularly for investors aligned with the past year's dominant themes of artificial intelligence (AI) and post-election optimism for a strengthening economy. Polen Capital maintain a long-term approach, rather than tactically positioning the Fund around emerging narratives or macroeconomic trends.
