Fund Commentary

Having been driven largely by expectations for elevated inflation and thus interest rates, global equity markets had to contend with the collapse of the banks Silicon Valley Bank (SVB) and Credit Suisse mid-month, amongst the largest bank failures in history. This had the effect of reducing rate tightening expectations in the U.S. and indeed the Federal Reserve increased their target rate by only 25 basis points at the March meeting, with the trade-weighted U.S. dollar weakening as a result. The European Central Bank (ECB) proceeded with a 50 basis point hike. Equity markets, however, were largely resilient and seemed to discount systemic risk in the global financial system.

For March 2023 the Polen Capital Global Growth Fund (the Fund) increased by 7.26 per cent, versus the benchmark the MSCI ACWI Index in AUD which increased by 3.79 per cent.

For the March 2023 Quarter the Fund increased 12.83 per cent, while the benchmark rose 8.65 per cent, for outperformance of 4.18 per cent.

During March the overweight allocation to the Information Technology sector was a positive as was the zero weighting to the Energy sector. The top three absolute contributors to performance were Microsoft, Adobe and Alphabet. The bottom three contributors to performance were ICON, CSL and Abbott Laboratories. The Fund added to positions in Amazon and Thermo Fisher while it reduced positions in Abbott Laboratories, Mastercard and Visa.

Fund Commentary

Polen Capital continue to see nearer-term growth headwinds primarily from COVID-19 grow-over issues. Uncertainty about the trajectory of interest rates and inflation and input costs still weigh on markets and are contributing to a broader 'risk-off' sentiment, which is exacerbated by any negative news at a company level. Polen Capital's long-term earnings growth expectations, however, remain largely unchanged, and they plan to continue to use volatility to take advantage of pricing anomalies and become more concentrated in their best investment ideas for the next five-plus years.
