Fund Commentary

October continued the negative run in global equity markets that had started in August. All major markets posted negative returns with China and Germany the worst performers, while the U.S. proved relatively resilient. All sectors within the MSCI ACWI Index, with the exception of the small Utilities component, posted negative total returns for the month. Growth equities generally outperformed their value counterparts.

Robust economic data, particularly from the U.S., signaled that interest rates would remain elevated for the time being, although the U.S. Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England all kept their main target rates on hold in October. Bonds sold off with the 10-year U.S. Treasury yield breaching the symbolic 5 per cent mark for the first time since 2007, slipping back to close the month at a yield of 4.93 per cent.

Despite elevated tensions in the Middle East, the oil price receded somewhat, falling nearly US$10 per barrel to US$81 by month end. For October 2023 the Polen Capital Global Growth Fund (the Fund) declined by 0.54 per cent in AUD, outperforming its benchmark the MSCI ACWI Index in AUD by 0.55 per cent.

Sector allocations were broadly neutral although the overweight to the IT sector was a small positive. At a stock selection level the overweight exposure to Amazon, Adobe, and Microsoft were all positives as these companies posted decent total returns in a generally weak market environment. Overweights to Align Technology, Thermo Fisher, and ADP all detracted from returns on perceived weaker customer demand for their respective products and services.

Fund Commentary

Regardless of the near-term direction of interest rates, the Fund's companies are performing well, and Polen Capital expect them to continue to perform well through the cycle. Polen Capital believe the Fund's valuation is currently fair for what they consider to be a collection of some of the best companies in the world. They believe these companies are well-positioned to deliver mid-teens annualised underlying earnings per share (EPS) growth, in the aggregate, for many years. Share prices generally track EPS change over the longer-term.
