Fund Commentary

Global equities closed the month lower as the COVID-19 delta variant, mixed economic data, inflation worries, and central bank tapering weighed on investor sentiment. The Polen Capital Global Growth Fund (the Fund) declined by 5.30 per cent versus the MSCI ACWI in Australian dollars, which fell by -3.00 per cent. The Fund underperformed the Benchmark due to allocation and selection effects.

The top three absolute contributors to performance were Mastercard, AON and ICON. An underweight to the industrials sector contributed to relative performance. Rising material costs and worries about a slowing global recovery weighed down on the sector. Within materials, an underweight to the sector contributed to returns. Uncertainty about the U.S. infrastructure bill and inflationary pressures sent the sector lower during the period.

The top three absolute detractors to performance were Adobe, Alphabet, and Microsoft.

Stock selection in the information technology sector detracted from relative performance, driven primarily by Adobe. Similarly, stock selection within the consumer discretionary sector weighed on relative performance, led by Adidas. An overweight to the communication services sector also detracted from relative returns, led by Alphabet and Facebook.

Polen Capital continue to believe that the Fund is well-positioned for long-term growth. Despite the different styles that will inevitably drift in and out of favor during the coming quarters, Polen Capital feel confident that the disciplined and consistent investment approach will stand up well and the underlying earnings growth of the Fund will drive the long-term investment outcome. Polen Capital also believe the secular tailwinds that many of the Fund's businesses are benefitting from will persist for years to come, serving as tailwinds to bolster growth.
